CAUTION

On Monday, February 4, 2013 at 9:13 am, a female subject walked into the PNC Bank located at 4249 Wisconsin Avenue NW, in Washington, D.C. The subject passed a note that demanded money to a bank teller, obtained the money, departed the bank on foot toward Warren Street (North) and then turned right (East). At 9:28 am, the female subject entered the Bank of America located at 3401 Connecticut Avenue NW, in Washington, D.C. The subject asked the bank teller for cash and stated that she had a gun. The subject obtained money and then exited the bank.

The subject in both robberies is described as a female, possibly Hispanic, with dark hair, wearing dark sunglasses, a black puffy coat, black pants, black leather gloves, black scarf around her head and a white and black polka dotted scarf around her neck and white tennis shoes. She was also described to have had a bandage on her nose or lip.

There was no weapon displayed at either robbery, however, at the Bank of America robbery the subject stated that she had a gun.
